AN EARTHQUAKE.

Frightful Devastation at the Mediterranean Island of Zante.

ATHENS, April 17.—The island of Zante, one of the principal of the [illegible] was visited by a most destructive earthquake this morning, resulting in great loss of life and property. The shock appears to have been most violent in the city of Zante, the greater part of which was destroyed. The people are panic stricken and the authorities helpless. The streets are impassable, being filled with masses of stone and timber, the wreckage of the houses which were thrown down by the earthquake.

Thus far the bodies of twenty persons killed by falling walls have been removed from the debris, and it is feared that many more [illegible] are still in the ruins. The number of persons injured runs up into the hundreds. Everything is in confusion, and the work of searching for bodies and for the injured cannot be pursued systematically. The [illegible] portion of the inhabitants have fled to the uplands back of the city, where they [illegible] about in a distracted manner, bewailing the loss of their homes and property.

A large number of tents that were taken to [illegible] the people who were rendered [illegible] by the former earthquake, have [illegible] set up and under them some of the [illegible] and children have taken refuge. [illegible] is a scene of desolation, and it is doubtful if it ever recovers from the series of misfortunes that have befallen it within the past three months. There is certain to be an enormous amount of suffering, and outside aid will be urgently required to [illegible] sickness and starvation.

The shock occurred at 8:30 a. m. Most of the buildings that stood erect after the [illegible] of February and March were either thrown down or shattered so as to be unsafe for occupancy. The church of St. Dionysius and the government offices were thrown down.

Advices from the interior show that the whole island has been devastated. Many villages have been destroyed, and it is thought that the loss of life has been very great. News of the disaster comes in very slowly, as communication with the interior of the island has been greatly interrupted by the destruction of many of the telegraph lines. The full extent of the calamity cannot be estimated at present. Warships will be dispatched from the Piraeus with provisions and medicines for the sufferers.

It is pointed out that the disaster is a confirmation of the prediction made a few days ago by Professor Falb, who predicted the former earthquakes, that disturbances more severe than the recent ones would occur on April 16 or 17. His prediction has proved true, for this morning's shock is the worst that has ever visited Zante, which is noted for its earthquakes.

The Greek government has acted promptly in rendering aid to the sufferers by the earthquake. The two Greek ironclads Hidra and Spezza, have already started for Zante, having on board a detachment of engineers, as well as provisions and money for the survivors of the calamity.

A Notable Discovery.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Much interest has been excited among scholars in the capital city by the publication of the cablegram stating that Professor Rendel Harris of Cambridge had reported to Professor Nestle at Tubingen that he had discovered in the convent on Mount Sinai a palimpsest containing the complete Syriac text of the four gospels.

"The gospels," said Dr. Cyrus Adler of the Smithsonian Institute, "it is believed were originally written in a dialect current in Palestine and especially in Galilee, a mixture of the Hebrew and Syriac. We know that it was not pure Hebrew from the [illegible] of certain expressions which are of Syriac origin. So ever since the modern [illegible] of the Scriptures began, it [illegible] directed in part to the discovery of what is believed to be the original text of the gospels. If that is what is now discovered its value and importance cannot be overestimated. The common version is from Greek translations of the originals. Professor Harris, whom I know quite well, is particularly well qualified to judge of the authenticity of such a discovery."

A Demand on the Regents.

BELGRADE, April 17.—Trouble has already begun for the ex-Regents Ristitch and Belimarkovitch and their late ministry. The new government as a result of investigations [illegible] concerning the finances of the country since Alexander acquired power by the coup d'etat of last Thursday night, has made a demand that ex-regents and ex-ministers shall reimburse the government for the sum of 2,400,000 dinars or francs, misappropriated during the regency under the [illegible] of having been used in the [illegible] of the State.

[illegible] Secretary Carlisle's [illegible]

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The Secretary of [illegible] He does not [illegible] to protect the [illegible] part of foreign speculators. All that [illegible] from an authoritative source [illegible] Administration's intentions [illegible] issued if necessary. The [illegible] nothing to learn is just what the Administration thinks is necessary. The question is the chief topic of discussion here to-day. There is some talk on the part of the Administration's friends about the certainty of the credit of the government being maintained. But that is idle. No one in the financial world has any doubt of the government's credit being maintained. The doubt is whether bonds to protect the $100,000,000 gold reserve will be issued. It is generally believed that the President inclines to an issue of bonds. That he had not fully decided the question in that way is evidenced by the fact that the bonds have not been issued.

Secretary Carlisle is inclined to let things go for a while in hopes that the gold tide may turn again toward this country. When he took hold of the financial reins of the government the free gold was at such a figure it was supposed that one of his first acts would be to issue bonds. But money in New York suddenly became tight. Interest went up and the demand for gold for shipment ceased. The banks in the interior wanting small notes to supply their customers, were glad to exchange gold for them.

But the demand for gold from the interior, is, the department reports, about stopped. Money in New York is more plentiful; interest is low, and to make matters still more favorable for gold shipments, Brown Bros. of New York to-day raised the price of sterling. On this raise came the report that at least one million and three-quarters would be taken from the treasury to-morrow and possibly $750,000 more gold will be taken. If this amount be required, too, the free gold will become exhausted and over half a million will be taken from the reserve, for the amount of free gold on hand to-day is reported to be 1,903,335. But as there was a turn for the better once before when it was not expected Secretary Carlisle hopes that there will be once again. [illegible] that turn he believes, it is understood, that there is no reason why a few millions [illegible] not be taken from the reserve. But just how much he is undecided.

Financial men here do not exhibit any anxiety. They say that they do not fear any very bad results, whatever the administration does. They would like to have it declare itself and thereby relieve the financial world of a painful suspense, however. They believe that were it to issue bonds there would be an easier feeling both here and abroad. It is generally regarded as certain that an issue must before very long be made, for the balance of trade is against this country and the financiers can see no indications of the balance being shifted over to the other side. Until the balance is shifted and so long as money in New York continues easy, gold shipments will continue. Meanwhile there seems to be nothing to do but wait until the powers that be make up their minds.

[illegible] CERTIFICATE ORDER.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Wall street did not seem to be at all disturbed to-day over Secretary Carlisle's order that no more gold certificates should be issued. The order was sent out on Saturday, but was not generally known until long after the close of business hours.

A few people who had occasion to deposit gold in the sub-treasury just before noon on Saturday learned of it when they were told of the option of keeping the gold, they wished to deposit or taking greenbacks. They choose the latter and the treasury gained just so much free gold. In one instance this amounted to $30,000.

Several bank presidents were asked about the order to-day and they all agreed that it of itself was not cause for alarm, it was simply issued in accordance with the law which provided that when the $100,000,000 limit was reached, no more gold certificates should be issued. Just what the object or the intent of the provision was no one seemed able to tell.

Frederick D. Tappen, President of the Gallatin National bank, said however, that not only was the order obligatory on the Secretary of the Treasury, but it was a very proper one under the circumstances. "Mr. Sherman issued a similar order before the resumption act was passed," said Mr. Tappen, "and the people soon got tired of carrying gold about. I remember very well that we had to settle our balances in gold. The Treasury used to dump millions of it down on the floor when they had to pay large balances to the clearing house and say 'there's your gold, take it.' No the effect of this has all been discounted and I do not look for any great depression in values."

J. Edward Simmons, president of the Fourth National bank, said, "It means of course that the free gold in the treasury is down to, the reserve mark of $100,000,000, and that the government will no longer act as a storehouse for the banks. The [illegible] is a serious one, of course, but it is practically no more serious now than it [illegible] week. When the cause of it is [illegible] not [illegible] will [illegible] Mr. Simmons [illegible] a month ago advocated the issuing of bonds and has since persisted in his argument, favoring such an issue as the only way to counteract the drain on the government.

A speculative dispatch received in Wall street from London to-day says: "The Secretary's action is incomprehensible but whatever its purpose may be, distrust reigns supreme and business in Americans is practically suspended. The dispatch indicates ignorance of the law under which the law was issued, but shows the effect of the announcement. One of the effects of the announcement will be to increase the free gold in the Treasury. About $30,000,000 of free gold are produced by the American mines each year. The engagements of gold to-day for shipment to-morrow, amounted to $1,750,000.

The Naval Parade.

FORT MONROE, Va., April 17.—The English are here. The first day of their rendezvous, with the other arrivals to-day, finds 24 ships in the harbor: Four American, 5 English, 2 Russian, 2 French and Dutch from Holland and Italy. The Hygeia hotel is filled with beautiful women, gallant navy officers, many prominent citizens and a sprinkling of [illegible]. Excursion trains and steamers will hurry to the boat-bars, and where the people will rest to-night is a conundrum.

Early watchers saw the English fleet of five ships creeping up the entrance to the Roads this morning, and were not slow at spreading the news. The vessels came in column formation. The Blake, the fastest and best of the modern crafts that the British have added to their navy, was in the van. Then came the Magicienne, the Tartar, the [illegible], Australia and in the rear the tiny Partridge. When abreast of the Atlanta, the most easterly ship of the long line of white boats [illegible] she had come to anchor, the Blake blazed away with a salute to "Old Glory," which floated at the main. The gunners in the fort, scarcely waiting for the smoke to drift away, responded with 21 guns. By this time the big [illegible] of the anchor of the Blake rested in the bottom of the sea, and the other ships [illegible] settled themselves down for a week's stay.

Another salute followed, this time one of thirteen guns in honor of Admiral Gherardi, while the United States flag was transferred from the main mast to the fore. From the three-pounders on the forward deck of the Philadelphia came the answering salute. Not the thirteen which were given to the rear admiral, but fifteen as becomes the vice-admiral, the rank of Sir John Hopkins. Even while the Philadelphia's guns were firing the Russian, the Frenchman and the Italian added their noisy chorus, while the vice-admiral's flag, a white ensign quartered with red stripes, waved from the mainmast of the Blake. Admiral Hopkins is at present the senior of the fleet, but the question of rank has been satisfactorily arranged through diplomatic correspondence and will not cause any friction. When the Russian vice-admiral gets here he will outrank even Admiral Hopkins, for his commission is an older one, but he too, will for the time being waive his precedence and be under the direction of the American admiral.

As soon as the Blake came to anchor the uniformed representatives of the several commanding officers of the various [illegible] boarded her. The ceremonies of [illegible] over, the officers of the Blake had their hands full in receiving the corps of correspondents and other visitors. The [illegible] rush to a newly anchored ship on every conceivable [illegible] now. One man who came aboard the Blake, for instance, was loaded down with official letters from the Navy department certifying that he could supply the ships with water at reasonable rates, while one of the first men to ascend the landing steps of the Jean Bart yesterday was a man who wanted to sell a picture.

Standing on the after deck of the Blake was Admiral Hopkins. He observed with interest the scene around him, and it was especially noticeable that he scanned with earnest look for some time the extended line of ships that lay before him. The Blake is the largest, fastest and the most heavily armored cruiser in existence, with the exception of her sister ship recently launched and her appearance on the Atlantic [illegible] year was her maiden voyage.

She is an ideal of naval architecture with a displacement of 9000 tons and engines of 20,000 horse power, to propel her through the water with twin screws at the rate of twenty-two nautical miles, or about twenty-six miles an hour. She is a floating battery, capable of throwing nearly a thousand pounds of metal with each broadside of her double row of guns. On her forward deck as well as aft she has two immense guns, each weighing twenty-two tons and mounted on such massive gun carriages that a man can stand on the deck beneath the muzzle without [illegible] ing. These guns can fire a shot of 380 pounds in a dead straight line for twenty-four miles. Down in her hold there are fifty huge furnaces and seven immense boilers which are attended by 150 firemen.

The visit of Admiral Gherardi to the Blake was made the occasion of much ceremony.

The arrivals of the fleet this afternoon were the Van Speyk, a Holland man-of-war, and the Husard, a small French gunboat and the first of the foreign ships to wear a coat of white paint. The Dutchman is very similar to the old ships of the United States navy, such as the Lancaster, and presents in the very antiquity of her make-up some interest. As she dropped anchor she saluted the flag and the American and English admirals in their turn, and received, of course, a smoky welcome in return.

Transcontinental Combination.

CHICAGO, April 17.—The importance of the combinations of railroads now fitting for transcontinental and intermediate traffic fairly staggers the members themselves. A palpable result of the introduction of demoralizing tactics would be immense losses and probable receiverships for some of the roads. In view of this fact the word has gone all along the line that rates must be maintained at all hazards. From some of the instructions sent out to-day it would appear that the tenure of office of a rate cutting agent would be a brief one. As nearly as possible the fight is to be one for the divisions of rates.

It appears now that the basis of the agreement of the nine lines combined to fight the Atchison-Southern Pacific on the one side and the Union Pacific-Northwestern on the other, is that the lines between Missouri and Ogden shall take the balance of the tariff after allowing the Southern Pacific its proportion to Ogden and 17½ per cent. to the lines between the Missouri and Chicago. This division holds good no matter what the rate. It forms an additional reason for the maintenance of present rates, as any reduction would grind the transmissouri lines between the upper and nether millstones.

The fight appears a hopeless one against the Atchison and Southern Pacific. They do not need the assistance of any other line in routing the business, and as the traffic originates in or is destined almost wholly to their local territory they will have a great advantage in controlling it. The Northwestern, in spirit at least, is fighting with the nine lines against the Union Pacific, and here is the best chance of the allied lines for success. None of the allied lines is turning over a pound of business to the Union Pacific, for it will allow them but 15 per cent. of the through rate for their haul to the Missouri, while they get 17½ per cent. from the Missouri Pacific, Rock Island, Burlington, Denver and Rio Grande and Rio Grande Western. The traffic contract between the Union Pacific and the Northwestern fixes the latter up to the 15 per cent., [illegible] until the question can be settled.

OLD AND NEW.

The Old Council Retires and the New Assumes Office.

CITY OFFICERS SELECTED.

Mayor Strickler Reads His Opening Address—The New Council Started in in a Rapid Business Like Way—List of Officers.

The new city council was installed into office last evening. The old council convened at 7:30 o'clock, Acting Mayor Davis presiding. All members were present, and the council then proceeded to close up the business of the old board.

Upon motion of Alderman Taylor the reports of committees and officers, excepting City Clerk, were laid over until the next meeting of the new council.

The clerk read his report which was adopted.

Alderman Dunbar moved a vote of thanks to the Mayor and City Clerk for their kind ness and courtesy. The motion was adopted unanimously.

The acting Mayor read a note from Mayor Sprague expressing his kindest regards for the members and thanking them for their courtesy. Mr. Davis then proceeded to read the following address:

In this, the closing hour of the Council of 1892, it may be well to look for a moment to the work that has been done during the past year. It is true that more might not have been accomplished, but sufficient to show that the Council has not been altogether idle. Time will permit the mention of only the more important matters, the construction of the pipe line from Lake Moraine and the Huerfano street viaduct. We may deem ourselves fortunate that a work of the magnitude of the pipe line was accomplished without any serious obstacles and that the working of the same has been perfect. Our telephone line to the lake will prove an immense saving in our water supply, as we can at once have the same increased or diminished as our needs may require.

Regarding our "great bone of contention," the Huerfano street viaduct, I will only say that we all felt relieved when it was completed. While there was at times some unpleasantness among us during its construction the feeling died with its completion. To my friends of the Council who remain another year let me say: You have been in service a sufficient length of time to realize the trials that must come to all who act in the capacity of "City Fathers." To those who are for the first time putting on the city harness, I need but say You will know how it is yourselves by the close of the first year.

To the member from the First ward—continue in your good work. Without doubt you will still sing the praises of Massachusetts in general and Boston in particular. I trust that the new Council will kindly indulge the Brother as we have done.

The member from the Second will be found quietly, but strictly, attending to business.

The member from the Third will keep the Council well stirred up, for he is [illegible] without a "bee in his bonnet." [illegible] for the public will not [illegible] on the bare spot on the top of his [illegible] spread over any [illegible]

In [illegible] I beg to say that I [illegible] sincere thanks to all the [illegible] of this Council for the kindness [illegible] me in the trying situation which I have been placed during the past six months, attempting as I have to discharge the duties of both Council and Mayor. With [illegible] feeling toward every member [illegible] that you may continue to [illegible] the city with the [illegible] shown during the past [illegible] Council of 1892 adjourned sine die.

After reading the minutes of the meeting the council adjourned "sine die."

THE NEW COUNCIL.

Alderman Taylor proceeded to administer the oath of office to Dr. Strickler as Mayor, and [illegible] to the new councilmen.

Mayor Strickler called the meeting to order and the clerk called the roll as follows: Sim. J. Dunbar, J. R. Robinson, C. E. Hoyt, E. S. Bumstead, C. L. Gillingham, W. H. Lloyd, R. B. Taylor, Frank Finegan, J. A. Leach, Thomas Huffman.

Mayor Strickler then read his inaugural address as follows:

Gentlemen of City Council:

In assuming the duties of presiding officer of this council, I do not care to take up any more time than necessary to outline a plan for the [illegible] in the administration of the affairs of the city. Our people are groaning under the burden of taxation and, at [illegible] I see no relief for years to come. They have a right to expect that every dollar taken from them by the tax gatherer for city purposes shall be judiciously and economically expended. We have no right, therefore, to pay more to get the work of this city performed than is necessary. I care not by what theory we may be influenced, [illegible] we are guilty of a wrong to our constituents. Aristocratic methods of doing business might be very well if they did not work hardships to those [illegible] able to bear them, that is to the [illegible] of the city who pay taxes upon their own homes. It is the wives and children of such who would feel most cruelly the injustice by which they would be deprived of the comforts. [illegible] nothing about the luxuries of life, should this Council, under delusions of grandeur, depart from economical and strictly business methods in the management of the affairs of the city, and indulge in extravagance in the expenditure of its finance. To impose burdens upon the poor man, who can scarcely pay the taxes upon his house, in order that the affairs of this city may be conducted in high-toned methods, is a wrong which should not be perpetrated by this or any other Council.

While I have no use for a parsimony in public improvements which is many times doubly expensive in the end, I have but little patience with any man who favors paying out more than is necessary in the way of current expenses, in order to uphold [illegible] [illegible] before, where this work [illegible] are not able to be borne. Such a policy is subversive of the [illegible] that every man owes [illegible] public, [illegible] to foster the belief that the [illegible] is to [illegible] of extravagance [illegible] all who are in any way connected with the city government. To protect the taxpayer against a too lavish [illegible] of city funds, it is provided by law that [illegible] the City Council nor any department or [illegible] of the city government shall add to the corporate [illegible] in any one year, anything over and above the amount provided for in the annual appropriation bill of [illegible] for any improvement to be paid for out of the general fund of the city [illegible] in any one year, [illegible] provided for [illegible] in the [illegible] legislation bill, except in case of [illegible] [illegible] or the whole Council [illegible] limits of appropriation for specific purposes [illegible] act in direct [illegible] [illegible] of law.

The [illegible] of annexing the limits of [illegible] everything upon which [illegible] be laid [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] a malignant growth [illegible] [illegible] proper realization of the respect and consideration due from one to another there is no good reason why our deliberations should not be conducted in the most amicable manner.

That you will differ in your opinion concerning the best methods of promoting the city's welfare is expected but allow me to remind you that with equal reason, it is expected of everyone who possesses the elements of American manhood that he should yield gracefully and cheerfully to the will of the majority. As your presiding officer in my rulings, I shall endeavor to be uninfluenced by prejudice or favoritism. But, should it be thought otherwise I wish to remind you that by acquiescing for the moment, you acquire the right of appeal to your brethren in council so that only a momentary hardship could arise from this direction. A cheerful acquiescence therefore in the observance of such parliamentary rules as the wisdom of the ages has given us will not only help to expedite business but prevent friction and the occasion of unpleasantness.

Alderman Taylor presented a resolution adopting the rules of the Council of 1892, excepting one clause regarding the committees, which does away with the ordinance committee. The motion prevailed.

Mayor Strickler then announced the following standing committees:

Finance.—S. J. Dunbar, C. C. Hoyt, R. B. Taylor.

[illegible] Annexation.

NEW YORK, April 17.—In a dispatch from Honolulu, dated April 8, Charles Nordhoff says: "I saw at San Francisco, and on the ship coming here, a number of old and new acquaintances [illegible] professional government men and [illegible] and others favorable to the monarchy.

All acknowledge that the natives, 40,000 in number, and all of proper age, able to read and write and brought up under American missionary training, with a few exceptions, are strongly opposed to annexation. I wish to emphasize this fact [illegible] by all the annexationists I have seen that the natives are solidly opposed to annexation. These are against the 40,000 natives, the Americans, men, women and children, of whom, though by no means all, want and try out for annexation. The leaders of [illegible] [illegible] of the fading [illegible] government."

THE NEW ADMINISTRATION

Mayor Strickler and City Treasurer Hale are now in office, and the new city administration is fairly begun. We ... the ... of the Mayor and Treasurer, and ... their guiding hands the work of the city may be well done ... it ...

As the ... before the city ... important matters will have to be dealt with during the ... of the new Mayor. First and foremost is the water question. Old bonds are to be refunded at a rate of interest ... this, new bonds for water and ... for water ... are to be ... and the water system is to be extended upon a well ... and adequate plan already adopted. In this ... the experience and ability of Mayor Strickler will be of great value to the city.

In some other ... there is need of a better administration and in this the ... they ... can be ... The ... of the city, and especially of the City Clerk's office, ... conducted, bills have been approved and paid without proper auditing, the book keeping has not been systematic and ... In all these matters a change should be brought about. Indeed such a ... has ... been begun, and all that is ... is to continue the good work. Treasurer Hale and the new City Clerk can do a great deal toward straightening and keeping straight all the city accounts and the work will be ... for them on account of the more systematic way in which the appropriations for the coming year have been scheduled.

The year ... in a promising way and we see at present no reason to doubt that at its end The Gazette will have cause to congratulate all the city officials and the other inhabitants of Colorado Springs as well, upon the efficient manner in which our affairs have been conducted and upon the increasing growth and prosperity of our city.

"A DEMOCRATIC NEWSPAPER"

The New York Times has gained at least one thing by its change of ownership. It comes out squarely as "a Democratic newspaper." For eleven years it has been sailing under false colors pretending to be independent when it was really Democratic. The new management evidently realize this for they make the remarkable statement that "for twenty five years it has advocated the principles and the policies that were emphatically approved by the people in the election of 1892." They have doubled The Times' Democratic years in making this announcement, but we ought not to mind a little thing like that. The habit of truth telling is not easy to acquire all at once after a long course of crookedness and prevarication.

The new owners of The Times are gentlemen prominent in the three great life insurance companies of the City, the Equitable, New York and Mutual. It seems probable therefore that the paper will make no further venomous attacks on the management of any one of these companies, at least, and that it is likely to get some good insurance advertising.

It is said that the sale was effected at $000,000 and that this sum does not include the building. If that is so the Jones ... have reason to congratulate themselves.

From 1871 to 1877 The Times was the foremost Republican newspaper and was conducted with great ability courage and consistency. Its course since 1884 has alienated nearly all of its former support ... and as it always claimed not to be Democratic it did not gain many ... Now it will undoubtedly try to ... the organ of the Cleveland ... Tammany Democratic machine in New York State, and may ... from the ... same time ...

It is at any rate a gain to have thrown off the cloak of hypocrisy ... which it has ... and to come out openly as a Democratic paper.

THE NAVAL PARADE

The preparations for the great Columbian ... which have been so long continued and so extensive that it is hard to realize that in a very short time now the goal towards which all this activity has been tending will be reached and the great Fair will stand open to be judged of the world. Only two weeks remain before the day when President Cleveland will start the machinery and the formal opening take place.

And yet earlier a preliminary celebration is to be held in New York on April 27th the great Naval Parade at which warships of all the principal nations ... be present ... with the United States in ... Columbus the discoverer of the New World. Extensive preparations have been ... for this event both by the ... and the ... government ... of the New York ... persons ... not ... the great Fair itself.

Certain it is that ... warship ... the world ... types of naval ... these ... tried and their ... judged ... of these vessels ... and effective for bombarding purposes at great distances has been an important factor in making war expensive ... the great warships useless.

Useful ... gallant ... Russia, France, Italy, England ... the Argentine Republic ... ready reached Hampton ... the place fixed for the ... assemblage and ships of Germany, Spain and Brazil are expected to arrive soon. The present week will be occupied with ... tions exchanged ... dignitaries and then all will ... together ... New York where the ... will take place.

The convention of Southern Governors at Richmond adjourned without doing much. An Address to the people of the United States and Europe" was adopted which sets forth the advantages of the South action was had looking to a Southern Commission on trade labor and immigration and last but not least a unanimous appeal was made to Mr Cleveland to appoint more Southern men to office. To the rest of the country and especially to the great West it looks as if the South were already receiving its full share of the offices. But office-holding is an appetite that grows by what it feeds on and the Southern Democrats are certainly very hungry.

There is ... to hope that the ... interests of Colorado will still receive some consideration from Mr Cleveland's administration. At the end of the present fiscal year on June 30 some appropriations for the General Land Office will become available and we sincerely hope that one of the first acts of the administration as soon as this money can be used will be the reinstatement of Colonel Ensign who has done such splendid work in establishing our present reservations in this State. His reappointment should certainly be urged by the press of the entire State without distinction of party.

The arrangement entered into by President Cleveland on the one hand and Messrs. Murphy and Sheehan on the other does not yet promise a very large share of the federal spoils to Tammany or the regular machine in New York State. The agreement is said to be that no further New York appointments shall be made until the "regulars" have a chance to file their applications after which they shall be duly considered. This may mean a good deal of patronage for Tammany or none at all according to the amount of consideration given to their applications.

The Russian government has added to its legation at Washington a naval attaché in the person of Captain Mertvago. It will probably not be long before the Russian minister Prince Cantacuzene is made an ambassador.

A TRIP WORTH TAKING

[illegible] North Galveston, Tex [illegible] April 27th [illegible]

MOGUL PRINCE ALBERT

The [illegible] mining suit over a Cripple Creek property [illegible] tried in this city, is now on in the District Court. It is [illegible] of [illegible] et al vs. J [illegible] et al., [illegible] involves property which the plaintiffs call the Great Mogul and the defendants the Prince Albert. It is for possession of the property and in this sense is the most important suit for others have been tried in part that involved property of equal value. It is a battle of the legal giants as arrayed on both sides are some of the most prominent mining lawyers of the state

The time yesterday afternoon was taken in securing a jury and the jurymen that will hear the case are as follows: E. S. Woolley John Brinkerhoff H M Ward H S Francisco M [illegible] Andre Adam Hill W D Sawin W Montieth D C Srieber, H N Greene W H Gandy Wm Frizzell

After the jury had been secured Colonel Rhett made the opening statement for plaintiffs and Judge Harrison for defendants. Court then adjourned until 9:30 this morning. Judge Campbell stated to the jury that it was customary in cases of this kind to confine the jury but as he was acquainted with all of them personally he knew there was no necessity for it in this case. He warned them against talking about the case, or reading newspaper accounts of it

The facts regarding the suit are about as follows: In August 1891 Tim Hussey located the Great Mogul claim on Beacon hill and whether he complied with the law or eventually abandoned the claim are questions to be settled. In September, 1892, Ole Johnson and Geo. W Moody went upon practically the same ground and staked the Prince Albert claim and found rich ore. These men sold a controlling interest in the Prince Albert to James Parker A A McKnight W R McCrea and others. These parties continue to hold the property. Last fall Tim Hussey deeded to Michael Meyer a three fourths interest in the Great Mogul and Meyer in turn deeded an interest in his part to Louis Pritchard and Big Hayes. These gentlemen began the suit. Then came J A Whiting Timothy Hussey Peter McCourt and W P Eaton who filed papers in the court as intervenors. From the complaint filed it appears that Hussey has also deeded to them a three-fourths interest in the Great Mogul claim. It alleges that Hussey at the time of making the deed to Meyer was not of sound mind from the habitual use of intoxicants, and asks that the deed be set aside as it was wrongfully secured

The plaintiffs and intervenors have practically joined issue for the present against the defendants

The various parties to the suit are represented by the following attorneys: For the plaintiffs Judge Yeaman of Denver, Rhett & Barnwell of this city, Hayes & Pritchard of Cripple Creek for the intervenors, Judge Belford of Denver and Owen Prentiss of Cripple Creek for defendants, T M Patterson and Harry Lee of Denver, P J Dugan of Pueblo Judge Harrison and J K Vannata of this city
